A seven day scenic driving tour taking in the best of Scotland's dramatic landscape - Loch Lomond and the Trossachs, Glen Coe, Fort William, Mallaig, the Isle of Skye, Loch Ness, Inverness, Ullapool and Grantown on Spey. Staying at 3 star hotels, with dinner included each evening, we start the tour with a night in the Lake District. Next we drive north to the Trossachs for one night, on to Inverness for 3 nights, returning south to the border country for the final night. A spectacular driving tour - approx. 920 miles in total.

Day 1 – Arrive at our hotel near Kendal, in the Lake District.

Day 2 – We take in some Lake District scenery on our way north into Scotland. Passing Glasgow we head on to Loch Lomond and the Trossach Mountains, to our hotel near Loch Lomond. Driving distance approx. 200 miles.

Day 3 – Either drive along Loch Lomond or take the mountain route through the Queen Elizabeth Forest Park. Then we pass Crianlarich and drive through Glen Coe to Fort William, and on through the Great Glen to Loch Ness and our hotel for 3 nights at Inverness. Driving distance approx. 180 miles.

Day 4 – Today we take an optional circular route along the south shore of Loch Ness and through spectacular scenery to Mallaig. Take the ferry to Skye and drive across the southern part of the island to the Skye Bridge and Kyle of Lochalsh. Follow the road along the shore to the famous Eilean Donan castle, then back along the north side of Loch Ness to the hotel. Driving distance approx. 200 miles.

Day 5 – Another optional circular route today – this time to the remote northwest of Scotland. Head northwest to Ullapool, then northeast to Ledmore and southeast to Dornock Firth and Cromarty Firth and back to the hotel. Driving distance approx. 150 miles.

Day 6 – Today we start our journey south, via Grantown on Spey and Perth. Cross the Firth of Forth and pass Edinburgh, finishing in the lovely town of Peebles on the River Tweed, where we stay our last night. Driving distance approx. 190 miles.

Day 7 – After breakfast, time to head home.
